New Working With Real Estate Agent Disclosure Form

The new disclosure form is one page, double-sided, with one side for sellers and one side for buyers. The Commission believes the new form will be quicker and simpler for brokers to use and easier for buyers and sellers to understand than the current brochure.

The criteria set forth in Rule 58A .0104(c) is not changing. Per that rule, brokers are required to

- provide and review the WWREA publication
- with all prospective buyers and sellers
- at first substantial contact.

The new disclosure form is now posted on the Commission's website (see link above), and brokers may begin using it immediately. All brokers must begin using the new form on July 1, 2021.

The current brochure has been converted into a Q&A brochure, with expanded content and visual aids. The Commission recommends that brokers continue to provide consumers with a copy of the Q&A brochure along with a copy of the new disclosure form.

For additional information, please view the commission's webinar on the new form at the link below.
